

Formation & Start-Up

At McMillan Metro Faerber, our health law team makes it their business to understand your business. For decades we have worked with health care business owners and managers to understand our clients' goals and objectives while, at the same time, understanding the realities our clients will encounter as the owners of an unusually complex business. We understand that health care businesses often entail unique compensation arrangements – arrangements that may not be permissible in every type of entity. We understand that some health care businesses require unusual lease and build-out accommodations. Critical to the success of every new and growing health care business is making sure that the owners are building upon a solid foundation; that begins with knowledgeable planning, choosing the right structure for the health care business, proper formation, and starting with informed infrastructure agreements and policies. We work closely with our clients' business and tax advisors to make sure each client's health care business is heading in the right direction from day one. Here are some of the Formation & Start-Up areas where McMillan Metro Faerber provides experienced legal advice and representation for our clients:

- Choice of Entity and Entity Formation
